INTRODUCTION

In modern Uzbekistan, all the necessary conditions have been created for a comprehensively developed upbringing of the younger generation in the spirit of national and universal values, love and devotion to the Motherland and its people.

A number of decrees and resolutions of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan Sh.M. Mirziyoyev are directed to physical, spiritual and moral development. Purposeful work to create favorable conditions for the all-round development of the younger generation for our people and is historically an integral part of its mentality.
The Constitution of the Republic of Uzbekistan, which proclaims a person and his life, freedom, honor, dignity and other inalienable rights as the highest value, is a solid legal foundation for fateful achievements on our way to a great future.

For a long time, in every family, in every mahalla, it has always been considered the most important to ensure the health of children, to give a good education and in this place to bring up worthy intellectual personalities with high spiritual and moral guidelines. It is in the modernization of the sectors of social life of society that these tasks have acquired the status of state policy in our Republic, as a result of which they have achieved positive results.

RESULTS AND DISCUSSION

Based on research, it can be said that young people under the age of 18 make up more than 40%, up to 30 years old 60% of the population of Uzbekistan. Naturally, the priority of all positive transformations in the country has become the concern for the upbringing of a comprehensively developed generation - physically healthy and spiritually mature, intellectually rich, possessing not only versatile knowledge, but also professions in demand in the modern world and who are able to think independently and creatively. It is all these criteria of the developed generation that contribute to the formation of the personality of a democratic society.

Universities of Europe and Asia are successfully operating in our country, such as Westminster University, Singapore Institute for Management Development, Turin Polytechnic University, Russian University of Oil and Gas, a branch of Lomonosov Moscow State University, and Russian University of Economics. These universities, in accordance with the national training of personnel, prepare bachelors and masters for various sectors of the national economy of the Republic of Uzbekistan. For example, at the Fergana State University, the University of Lithuania ISMA functions, with the aim of exchanging experience in personnel training, as well as training in foreign educational technologies.

Factors of formation on the basis of national and universal values of a perfect worldview, creative and personal qualities of the younger generation is to stimulate gifted youth. State scholarships of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan, A. Navoi, Ibn Sino, Ulugbek, Bobur, Beruniy State Prize named after Zulfiya is annually awarded to those who are successful in their studies, in public life, i.e. the most socially active youth. It is the category of this gifted youth that is attracted to the development of science, which helps them to take part in various international Olympiads and competitions.

This means that the actual use of the above-mentioned factors in the formation of a comprehensively developed generation requires the consistent application of innovative solutions to the problem of personnel training in activities under conditions of technological progress.

Raising a comprehensively developed generation is the greatest dream. This is the dream of our people, who firmly believe in the great future of Uzbekistan. As the President of the country noted, no matter what goals we set, no matter what great things we do, they are based primarily on the dream of raising our children physically and spiritually healthy, inferior in nothing and not to anyone, to see their happiness and prosperous future.

A comprehensively developed generation is, first of all, healthy children. In modern Uzbekistan, the legal basis of the new system in the field of education has been modernized. The attention of employees of educational institutions is aimed at improving the content of education, improving the quality and efficiency of education, widespread introduction of advanced pedagogical technologies into practice.

Let us take a closer look at the main factors contributing to the formation of an all-round personality in a democratic society.

1. Spiritual wealth. It is formed on the basis of organic, free assimilation of universal and national spiritual values. This should take place freely, without external pressure, any forcibly imposed prescriptions. At the same time, omnivorousness should not be formed, a person should be able to distinguish between bad and good, “grain from chaff”.

2. Moral integrity implies a harmonious moral system in every person that can withstand the test of life practice. A morally whole person perceives certain moral values consciously, understands the meaning of certain moral prohibitions and shares their necessity.

3. Independent thinking - thinking that is not based on any stereotypes. A person who possesses it critically comprehends any difficult life situation and seeks to find a rational way out of it. People with independent thinking will not tolerate any form of violence against themselves. And at the same time, an independently thinking person is dangerous for a totalitarian, closed society.

In our country, the national program for personnel training serves the goals of forming a comprehensively developed personality that meets the needs of a democratic rule-of-law state and civil society.

In this regard, it is advisable to single out three main directions in which the education reform is being carried out in our country.

1. Changing the structure of the education system. Making it more flexible.
2. Changes in the content of educational programs, their great connection with the present.
3. New methods of educating students.

Let us briefly consider the essence of these aspects and how they are aimed at the formation of a comprehensively developed personality. Speaking about the personality traits necessary in a democratic society, which the new teaching system should bring up, it is necessary to highlight the following aspects:

- intellectual and psychological readiness to express one's opinion;
- confidence that society will protect the individual's right to express his or her opinion;
- respect for the right of other people to express their opinion, tolerance;
- awareness of responsibility for their statements;
- freedom of expression should not turn into licentiousness, permissiveness. The combination of such qualities as intellectual and psychological readiness to express one's opinion, tolerance and responsibility constitutes such a necessary quality of a person as a legal culture.

Thus, the all-round development of the personality includes an organic combination of the spiritual and physical perfection of the individual, the understanding of the rights and responsibilities in civil society.

CONCLUSION

Based on the foregoing, the following conclusion can be drawn. This means that the real use of the above factors in the democratic conditions of the formation of a comprehensively developed generation requires us to consistently apply innovative solutions in the implementation of the concepts of education and training.
